SOMETHING ENTIRELY FRESH AND
NEW AMONG DETECTIVE STORIES

Christopher Quarles
College Professor and Master Detective

By PERCY J. BREBNER

Author of "The Little Gray Shoe," etc.

PROBLEM: Was it murder?

Clues: A paste jewel and a nest of empty ivory boxes.

PROBLEM: A sudden disappearance.

Clue: A cigarette end; but the methods of solution are not those of Sherlock Holmes.

PROBLEM: Why should a burglar be apparently seeking plain bone counters?

PROBLEM: Was a motor-car maniac at large, or ———?

Solved by the help of Professor Quarles' pretty and brave young granddaughter.

These and many other unhackneyed puzzles brought to the quaint old Professor of Logic and Philosophy by his young friend from Scotland Yard, are solved with an ingenuity which ranks him alongside the two other famous detectives in fiction. A great trio, of which the last is not least.

★ The Street ★ ★ Of Seven Stars ★ ★ by ★ Mary Roberts Rinehart

Instant and sincere has been the appreciation evoked by "The Street of Seven Stars." A few of the many unsolicited tributes that the author has received from men and women throughout the country are printed here. Better than any review or description, these letters show by their spontaneity and depth of feeling the power of Mrs. Rinehart's latest book.

MASSACHUSETTS. By all means, the broadest and best thing you have done. In fact, I think it stands far above any of the recent fiction I have read.

NEW YORK. It is a story that grips the attention; the people are so real, and so is the atmosphere. The consequence is, that they persist in living, though the story has ended.

PENNSYLVANIA. I felt that I wanted to tell you how wonderfully human and sweet and wholesome it is and what a truthful portrayal of the dangers and difficulties which beset the path of even the most talented music students.

CALIFORNIA. Fresh and clean and sweet—a story which makes one feel the better for having read it, and wish that he could know all of your dear characters.

ILLINOIS. "The Street of Seven Stars," is the greatest story ever.

A FICTION LIST WE'RE PROUD OF

H. De Vere Stacpoole's New Novel

THE PRESENTATION

A romance of Paris—not the Paris of to-day, grim and sombre, but old Paris of the days when France was under the rule, not of kings, but of ministers and favorites. A conspiracy is on foot, headed by de Choiseul, the minister, to prevent the presentation of Madame Dubarry at Court. The details of the plot are discovered and disclosed by M. de Rochefort, a gallant gentleman of the Court.

The story includes an account of the crimes of a man versed in the art of poisoning, the secrets of which had been discovered in Italy and imported into France. The wonderful detective work, necessitating several days incarceration of a man in the catacombs of Paris, recalls the thrilling experiences of one of Victor Hugo's characters.

Anatole France's Latest Novel

THE REVOLT of the ANGELS

This latest novel by Anatole France presents graphically the irrepressible conflict between science and theology. According to M. France, science dates from the rebellion of Lucifer. It is a satirical piece of work, many of the personages being clever caricatures. Anatole France is not only the greatest living French stylist; he is a world celebrity, already almost a world classic. The publication of a new work by him is a literary event of decided importance.

THE BIG WAR SERIES

(Trade Mark Registered)

By ROSS KAY

Ready

Oct. 10

Unquestionably, American boys are deeply interested in the big war in Europe. It is the engrossing topic of the day. It follows, then, that these stirring and wholesome stories will find a large and quick response.

The author—one of the best known American writers of juvenile fiction—pictures many interesting adventures of an American boy in Europe at the outbreak of the war. He has avoided improbable and sensational deeds. He has visited most of the places to which reference has been made and endeavors to give his young readers a clearer insight into the history which is now in the making.

PREDATORY PRICE-CUTTING AS A CRIME.

THE opponents of efforts to maintain fixed prices on merchandize use as their almost invariable line of argument that where an article has been sold and title to it passed, the seller ceases absolutely to have control of it, even, some assert, in the face of contracts to the contrary! "I have bought and paid for it; it is mine," is the plea, "to do with as I please. If I choose to cut its selling price, even to the point of selling it at a loss, it is no one's else business."

How shallow and untenable this plea is is clearly shown in the article, "Predatory Price Cutting as Unfair Trade," by E. S. Rogers of the Chicago bar, which appeared in the Harvard Law Review last winter, and has already been quoted from in these columns. As Mr. Rogers points out, a man is not merely an individual; he is a member of society; and it is basic that he cannot use what is his own, even a thing so "undeniably his own property as his own name," in such a way as to injure his fellow members of society. A man may own a gun; he cannot, therefore, "doing as he pleases," shoot his neighbor therewith. He may own a building; he cannot, as he wills, rent it for disreputable purposes. He certainly owns his own name; but it has been repeatedly held that he cannot use that name in business if such use tends to work a deception on the public.

In short, the principle that a man may use his own property, in buying, selling or any other social-economic relation, according to his own needs and desires, "while true in the abstract, is subject to many limitations in the concrete." No man can "use" his own property to the injury of neighbors "whose rights are as sacred as his own." The final test of a specific "right" is not one of legal title, but of its effect on the public concerned and on society at large.

If there is no doubt of the soundness of this conclusion, and it is difficult to see one, the first legal refuge of the price-cutter is beaten down, and he is forced to a justification of his methods from the broader standpoint of public policy.

The recognition of the tangible value of intangible business good will is a comparatively recent economic development. Legal protection against invasions of that good will rests on a body of decisions still in the making. The distance traveled since 1742, when Lord Hardwicke thought it would be "mischievous" to enjoin the commission of what seems to us so obvious an offence as the flagrant imitation of a trade-mark, is enormous.

The concatenated steps by which the price-cutter invades and destroys the good will of the maker of the price-cut merchandize has been clearly and frequently summarized before in these columns. As Mr. Rogers well says: "It is the localized good will of the producer in the community in which the retailer does business" that makes price-cutting worth while. And he adds:

One cut-price sale invariably provokes others in retaliation. Where one dealer cuts the price of a dollar watch to sixty-nine cents, his neighbor, not to be outdone, advertises at fifty-nine cents. Another then cuts to less, with the result that sooner or later, usually sooner, all the dealers in the community are forced to sell this particular watch at a price which yields no profit. The result is that purchasers are persuaded not to buy or to take an unknown article represented to be "just as good." The reputable and popular article is sold under protest or not at all. The local dealer who survives this competition is invariably a department store, or other concern of large resources, which can afford to do business for a time at a loss. The effect of a cut-rate war on the producer, whose well-advertised and reputable product was the subject of the first attack, is disastrous. Through no fault of his own he is deprived of the distribution of his goods in the community. His market is taken away from him for no reason except that his reputation is good and his products in demand are of recognized value and known to be worth the price he asks. His advertising expenditure is wasted because ineffective. Purchasers with the impulse to buy cannot gratify it, and it is manifest that such conditions, if at all extensive, will ruin any business. The public are not benefited because, even if for a while they are able to get an article of recognized value at a cut price, soon they cannot get it at all, or only at great inconvenience.

Now, surely this "utilization, without permission, of the producer's good will for another's private gain," has worked very serious damage to the producer. The destruction or theft of good will by fraud is universally and unquestionably a criminal offense. Yet here is a case of theft and then destruction of good will by price-cutting. The net result to the producer is identical.

If, as has been the case of late years, the courts, in their efforts "to circumvent the ingenuity of trade parasites," have banned all sorts of borderland practices, indirect invasions of good will rather than actual fraud—such as the insertion of unauthorized advertising inserts in newspapers, covered by a recent specific New York State law—it is difficult to see how such an indefensible and serious invasion of good will as price-cutting can longer escape. Nothing can be done of lasting moment except with the endorsement of enlightened public opinion; but public opinion, thanks to the crusade of education carried on so vigorously for two years past, is rapidly becoming crystalized.

CLAFLIN REORGANIZATION PLANS COMPLETED.

THE plan for the reorganization of the H. B. Claflin Company, the Defender Manufacturing Company, and the twenty-two retail store companies in the Claflin chain that went into the hands of receivers on June 25 and following days, has received the approval of the Noteholders' Committee, the General Creditors' Committee, and the Creditors' Audit and Adjustment Association Committee, and now has been given out for publication. Bankers have commented favorably on the proposed programme, and while some were disappointed by the rather small percentage of the proposed cash payment, it seemed to be generally agreed that the creditors' committee had worked out the best plan possible under the circumstances.

The total indebtedness of the H. B. Claflin Co. consists of some $9,000,000 due on merchandise, direct loans, etc., approximately $31,500,000 of indorsements of notes of the twenty-three companies, and some $1,700,000 of local debts of several companies and like items. Under the new plan the Mercantile Stores Corporation is to be formed to acquire, at judicial sale or otherwise, the stock or assets of all the companies in receivership, and its stock will in turn revert to the present H. B. Claflin Co. if and when the outstanding claims of $42,200,000 have been paid.

The reorganization is to be distinctly a creditors' reorganization in that representatives of the creditors are to have the naming of the directors of all the companies and complete charge of the management of the business. All the rights of creditors will be preserved as they now exist, and if the plan is successful the losses incident to forced liquidation will be saved.

The plan, briefly stated, provides that noteholders shall receive, in exchange for their old notes, 15 per cent. of their claims in cash and 85 per cent. in three-year collateral trust income notes issued by a new company, to be known as the Mercantile Stores Corporation. These new notes are to be in twenty-three series, corresponding to the twenty-three companies which executed the notes now outstanding indorsed by the H. B. Claflin Company. The new notes under each such series are to equal 85 per cent. of the old notes made by that particular one of the twenty-three companies, which the noteholders are so to exchange for the new notes of such series, which series, in turn, will be secured by the pledge of the entire capital stock of that particular company. Subject to such pledge, such capital stock will be owned by the Mercantile Stores Corporation. Each of the twenty-three companies will commence business practically without indebtedness of any kind and should command good credit.

The creditors of the H. B. Claflin Company, who do not have claims against one of the twenty-three companies in the hands of receivers, will be paid 15 per cent. in cash and 85 per cent. in a three-year collateral trust income note, likewise issued by the Mercantile Stores Corporation. This last series of notes is to be secured by the deposit of one-sixth of the total capital stock of approximately $6,000,000 of the H. B. Claflin Corporation, a new corporation to be organized to continue only that portion of the wholesale business of the H. B. Claflin Company which is profitable.

The plan provides that the dividends earned by any store, the stock of which is deposited to secure a particular series of notes, shall first be used in paying 5 per cent. interest upon that series of notes and that any portion of dividends not required to pay such interest shall be applied pro rata on the principal of the notes of that particular series. Power is given to the trustees to sell the collateral deposited at any time, primarily for the benefit of the holders of the notes of the series for which the stock is deposited.

The trustees named in the plan are: James S. Alexander, President of the National Bank of Commerce, New York; Ernest A. Hamill, President of the Corn Exchange National Bank, Chicago; John W. T. Nichols, of Minot, Hooper & Co., New York; Philip Stockton, President of the Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, and Henry W. Howe of Lawrence & Co., Boston and New York.

The trustees will select the first Board of Directors of the Mercantile Corporation, which will consist of seven members, at least three of whom must be merchants. A majority of the Board of Directors of the proposed H. B. Claflin Corporation, until the payment of the collateral notes, are to be merchants.

There seems to be a general feeling of optimism as to the success of the reorganization scheme. Cooperation is the keystone of the entire plan. In this connection, Edwin H. Baker, Chairman of the General Creditors' Committee, said:

"If the plan now presented is carried out it will mean that the terrific losses which would result from forced liquidations can be averted, and both the wholesale and retail businesses can be continued.

"It is the earnest hope of our committee that all noteholders, merchandise creditors, and others will work together shoulder to shoulder to bring about as speedily and as successfully as possible a complete reorganization of these enterprises."

LITERATURE AND WAR.

It was Flaubert who spent 1871, according to De Goncourt, upon "The Temptation of St. Anthony," assuring his friends that the siege and commune were nothing—merely the normal history of mankind. Probably a sense that even individual instances of such detachment are now impossible in Europe has stimulated the many speculations upon letters and the conflict. A war that dominates the mind and energy of four great literary nations, that puts its Barrés and Rostands on the firing-line, and that shows them with the vividness of actual experience the impact of fighting upon the man and the nation—how can it fail to leave its searing mark across literature? Yet it is dangerous to generalize upon the currents of creative art, in predicting either what phases they will follow, or what form their expression will take. Our Civil War left us dumb, and the Napoleonic conflict inspired little among contemporaries. We may be cautious in accepting a prediction that has been made that drama will be stimulated as it was by the defeat of the Armada. The single certainty is that many lives must be blotted out as promising as our own Theodore Winthrop, lost at Great Bethel. One insecure reason for thinking of the war as rich literary soil is probably the number of novels like Wells' "The World Set Free" and Palmer's "The Last Shot," imaginative presentiments of what is now going on. If armed peace inspired these, what will the battle-novels of the future be like?

Such novels, notes the New York Evening Post, are themselves illustrations of the fallacy of believing that the sheer breadth of the great war should make it an inspiration. Perhaps it is because there are more of them that small wars have inspired more; but these writers show the danger of describing a vast conflict so as to make war itself the protagonist. What made the imagination of Wells and Palmer drunk was the epic proportions of a potential world-war; and both have nearly submerged the individual element. Each employs puppet figures; one strives to divide our sympathies between the two sides; and the most human scene of the other is a mere illustration of the extent of a battle, in having the commander clear his brain by trout-fishing in its midst.* The resultant weakness demonstrates one of the many limitations which make a comprehensive struggle defy literature. Under the manifold intricacies of a battle between two vast armies, each regiment must operate in almost complete ignorance of what happens but a few miles away—each individual can know but a fraction of the activities, strategic, moral, physical, roaring about him. Any really moving story must be carefully circumscribed in its point of view. The scene may be as varied as in Zola's "Débâcle," where the unbearable fatigues of marching, the agonies of the wounded, the misery of prison pens, are described in their reaction upon two soldiers. But we must always see the facts of war as suffered by one mind; the impossibility of panoramic presentation makes its size, beyond a certain point, negligible. Tolstoy's "War and Peace" is panoramic, but it is subjective. For all the wealth of characters, the most important are drawn from the inside, and the reader beholds the epoch through their eyes and emotions. The synthesis of a battle is to be left for official histories. Just as the two books mentioned forget this, so a sense of the tremendous size of the present struggle may oppress rather than aid the art of its reporters.

A question of equal interest is of the extent to which realism will be carried into the new portrayals of war. It has been assumed that the modern blind brutality and impersonality of battle would make naturalism an inevitable note. But this is far from true, and the experience of fifty years would warn writers away from such a tendency. It is again the result of looking too closely at war itself, and of ignoring the individual. Our own best exponent of this method is Ambrose Bierce, whose Civil War scenes have every element of cold brutality. In place of the conventionalities of a Kinglake, the charge of cavalry, the glitter of bayonets, the splendor of bombardments, he gives us the picture of an insane goryness not less appalling than Andreyev's "Red Laugh." In France, the experiences of the War of 1870 coincided with the rise of the naturalistic method. While Erckmann-Chatrian, Coppée, and Daudet held to the older traditions, Huysmans, Maupassant, and Zola (in the "Soirées de Médan" rather than in the "Débâcle") were grimly and even untruthfully candid. Their work may make excellent peace tracts, but pure literature is not concerned with peace tracts; and theirs is inferior to novels of the kind written by Tolstoy. It suffers in proportion, verisimilitude and interest just as all other naturalistic novels do, and is probably less effective from the point of view even of terribleness than more reticent and appealing volumes.

The relations of war to letters are manifold, and it of course plays its better part when it deepens national spirit and the sense of oneness with fellow-countrymen, and not through the mere furnishing of scenes and emotions to be depicted. From this point of view, the war now going on is not a highly promising one. Except perhaps for Poland, it can hardly establish a new nation. It is more likely to end in general exhaustion than in affirming the glorious self-confidence of a people; and its consequences to culture must be deplorable. But only speculation is possible on such a subject.

CANADIAN TRADE NEWS.

TORONTO, September 28.—Canadian publishers have at present under consideration several proposals for assisting booksellers to dispose of their stocks of books this fall and winter. At a meeting of the Publishers' Section of the Toronto Board of Trade, which is to all intents the Publishers' Association of Canada, it was agreed that something should be done to induce the public to buy books. A number of schemes were suggested. A few favored a newspaper campaign, but this was thought to be too expensive. Others thought that a series of posters or hangers might be produced giving arguments why people ought to buy books, which might be hung in the stores and public places. The matter was finally left over for executive consideration. Mr. Frank Wise, president of the Macmillan Co. of Canada, chairman of the publishers' section, is taking an active interest in the matter.

Conditions generally show but slight improvement over a month ago. During September the country has been pretty well covered by representatives of the Toronto publishing houses, and with but few exceptions the report is that business is below the normal. This is particularly true of the west, which is rather more susceptible to fluctuations than the east. Whether the marketing of what will be probably the most profitable crop in the history of the country will tend to improve matters as the weeks go by is problematical. East of the Great Lakes conditions vary. There are some sections of Ontario and Quebec where business has been found to be quite buoyant, but again in the cities it is undoubtedly poor. New Brunswick is reported to be fairly good, Nova Scotia medium and Prince Edward Island quite prosperous. Generally speaking, however, the outlook is none too cheerful.

This is the situation so far as the publisher and wholesale bookseller is concerned. There seems little doubt that later on when the Christmas trade opens up, the retailers will come in for a good share of the money that will be spent in gifts. This year, as never before, "Books for Christmas" will be the slogan of the book trade and it ought to tell. Cheapness, suitability and good taste may all be combined in a book and, if one is not much mistaken, books will be in vogue this year more than ever.

M. J. Gaskell, president of the Gaskell Book and Stationery Co., Vancouver, B. C., with stores in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, is in the east at present doing a little light fall buying. He reports business on the coast as quiet, but is confident that with the turn of the year things will show improvement.

E. L. Christie, Brandon, Man., who is one of the most successful booksellers in Western Canada, is also in the east at present. He has for some time been making quite a feature of library supply business and is a large dealer in school books.

The Victoria branch of the Thompson Book and Stationery Co., Vancouver, B. C., has recently taken over the business of the Fullbrook, Sayers Co., who went into liquidation.

J. W. Diller, an American subscription book man, has opened a book store on Jasper Avenue, Edmonton, Alta., where he has stocked a general line of books.

Thomas Brophy, proprietor of the Cambridge Book Store, Quebec, showed enterprise in opening a branch establishment at the Valcartier Military Camp during the mobilization of the first Canadian contingent at that point.

It is reported that the Regina Book Shop, Regina, Sask., is in the hands of a liquidator. This business was formerly run by G. B. Salmond, who is now in the employ of the provincial government.

The big fall book in Canada is "The Life of Sir George Etienne Cartier" by John Boyd, for which the Macmillan Co. of Canada are responsible. 1914 is the centenary year of the birth of Cartier, who was one of the leading men in the Dominion at the time of the Confederation. The book is a large and handsome volume, and it has received the endorsement of the Dominion and Quebec governments.

Another recent publication of interest is Captain Knox's "Journal of the Campaigns in North America, 1757-1760," of which the first volume has just been republished in handsome form by the Champlain Society. This work is now very scarce and the re-issue will place it within the reach of students of American history.

There is to be a new novel by Robert W. Service, the poet of the Yukon, whose "Songs of a Sourdough" brought him international reputation. It will be called "The Pretender" and will be published by Mr. Service's regular Canadian publisher, William Briggs. The story deals with some phases of Parisian life with which the author has familiarized himself during a recent residence in the French capital.

Another of the young poets of the West who has achieved some renown through his clever versifying, Robert J. C. Stead, has also essayed fiction-writing this fall and his first novel, "The Bail Jumper," is now out with William Briggs' imprint. It is a romance of western life with plenty of local color.

The same publisher has just issued a first novel by Dr. Thurlow Fraser, a clergyman, entitled "The Call of the East," which deals with the Far East. Dr. Fraser spent some years as a missionary in Formosa, and he has drawn on his experiences there for much of his material. It is a virile book of a good moral tone.

A volume of more local interest is shortly to appear from the same publishing house. This is "Recollections and Records of Toronto" by W. H. Pearson, a veteran business man whose memory can carry him back many years.

"A Short History of the Canadian People" by Dr. George Bryce is now on the market. This is a comprehensive account of the history and varied activities of the people of the Dominion, written by a Manitoba professor who has made a close study of his subject. It is published in a Canadian edition by William Briggs.

Two reference books dealing with Canada have recently appeared, both of which are worthy of note. These are "The Imperial Year Book for the Dominion of Canada, 1914-15," and "The Canadian Annual Review." The former, compiled by A. E. Southall, contains an astonishing amount of useful information in its 576 pages, and is published by the Imperial Year Book Co., Montreal. The latter, edited by J. Castell Hopkins, aims at giving a running commentary on the events and achievements of the past year. It is published by the Annual Review Publishing Company, Toronto.

My heart goes out to the man who does his work when the boss is away, as well as when he is at home.—ELBERT HUBBARD.

POSTAL NOTES.

NEW RULE HOLDS UP DELIVERY OF CERTAIN POST CARDS.

THE following order went out recently from the Post Office Department at Washington:

"There appears to be a growing tendency on the part of advertisers, public utility corporations and other patrons to omit street and house number from the address on post cards and postal cards. When mailed in large quantities or habitually mailed by the same person or firm with the evident expectation of having the post office complete the address, the cards should not be given directory service, but should be placed in general delivery. Paragraph 5, Section 603 and Section 607, Postal Laws and Regulations, are construed as applying to such matter."

The matter caused some concern in New York and other large cities for the reason that many prominent firms are often addressed simply by the firm name, the carriers and post office officials delivering them without hesitation, knowing the address of the firm. This rule, it was asserted, will compel all the large firms in the city to call daily at general delivery for their mail, where it was believed such letters would be held.

Postmaster Edward M. Morgan, of New York, explained, however, that the rule has no reference to letters, but only involves the delivery of post cards and postal cards which in great bulk are sent in bearing only firm names without street addresses. In the matter of these cards the rule will, he said, be strictly enforced.

OBITUARY NOTES.

JOHN B. FLAGLER, for forty years a book merchant in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., died on September 21, following a critical surgical operation. Mr. Flagler, who was seventy years old and had been in ill health for some time, discontinued his book business about two years ago. He is survived by a son and a sister-in-law.

PERSONAL NOTES.

HENRY W. LANGMANN, formerly of Brentano's, is now in the retail department of G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

K. C. BERGER, book and stationery buyer for R. H. White, Boston, Mass., was in New York recently.

MISS M. GORDON was in New York City a week or so ago buying books and stationery for Lord & Gage, Reading, Pa.

JOHN TOBIN, of the Tobin Book Store, Austin, Texas, accompanied by his wife, has been spending ten days in New York.

MR. EDWARD D. APPLETON, for the past ten years manufacturing man for the Robert Appleton Company, publishers of the Catholic Encyclopedia, is now vice-president of the J. F. Tapley Company, Book Manufacturers, of New York. Prior to 1900 Mr. Appleton was manager of the Appleton Bindery, and from 1900 to 1906 he was in charge of the Chicago office of that company.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that Bindery Talk has suspended publication because of lack of financial support, but it hopes to resume before long.

MR. ALEXANDER TEIXEIRA DE MATTOS has translated another of M. Fabre's delightful nature studies, "The Wild Bee," which Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Co. announce for autumn publication.

THE MANY FRIENDS of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden" will want to read "The Pastor's Wife," a new novel by the same author which Doubleday, Page will issue at once.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. publish the authorized American edition of Bernhardi's "Germany and the Next War." The new printing will be ready on October 7.

THE ABINGDON PRESS has just published "The Bible as Literature," by I. F. Wood and Elihu Grant, both teachers in Smith College. The work is not a cursory essay, but a detailed study.

AMONG THE NEW NOVELS to be looked forward to this fall is "The Revolt of the Angels," by Anatole France, to be published October 9 by John Lane. On the same date a popular edition of the same author's "At the Sign of the Reine Pedauque" will appear.

THERE'S NO REAL BOY living who wouldn't give—well, 'most anything—to see Buffalo Bill and his wild West show. If the subject has anything to do with a book's popularity, Edwin L. Sabin's new juvenile, "Buffalo Bill and the Overland Trail" (Lippincott), should be a winner.

ONE OF THE RECENTLY PUBLISHED Lothrop, Lee & Shepard books is "The Boy Electrician," by A. P. Morgan. It contains practical plans for electrical toys and apparatus, with an explanation of the principles of every-day electricity.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. is offering, among their fall books, a volume which should appeal to the lovers of Louisa M. Alcott. "Little Women Letters from the House of Alcott" is a selection of letters of the Alcott family, revealing the childhood and home life of the beloved Little Women.

A REVISED AND ENLARGED EDITION of Prof. H. P. Johnston's "Nathan Hale" is to be brought out this fall by the Yale University Press. The original limited edition of 1901 was quickly exhausted and the present revision includes new material from certain recently discovered letters and journals.

AMONG Brentano's fall calendars are "The Novel Lover's Calendar, illustrated with portraits of Meredith, Hardy, Stevenson, Barrie, Bennett, Kipling, Hawkins, Cocks and Hewlett; and "The Playgoer's Calendar," illustrated with portraits of Shaw, Barrie, Bennett, Galsworthy, Pinero, Jones, Wilde, and Houghton.

IN "THE SEARCH FOR THE SPY" and "The Air Scout," Ross Kay tells of the adventures of an American boy in Europe at the outbreak of the war. These timely juvenile fiction offerings of Barse & Hopkins should be warmly greeted upon their publication on October 10.

THE PUBLIC CRAVING for detective stories is a hard thing for even war interest to displace. E. P. Dutton put forth on October 1 a new book of detective stories in which a professor of logic and philosophy and a young man from Scotland Yard (that ne plus ultra detective-story setting) unravel some astonishing mysteries.

THE PAGE CO. has just published Will S. Monroe's timely book on "Bulgaria and Her People." Besides the first and second Balkan wars and recent political developments, the author discusses the history, the people and their customs, the religion, education, music, literature, painting, industry, and many other phases of this little-known country.

"RICHARD CARVEL" is published this fall by the Macmillan Co. in a new edition, printed from entirely new plates, the old plates having been worn out by many printings. That this book, after fifteen years, should be worthy of an entire resetting is an eloquent testimony to Mr. Churchill's popularity.

"THE TRUTH ABOUT GERMANY" ought to sell like the proverbial hot cakes. It is a pamphlet issued under the patronage of some of the most prominent Germans of to-day, and is reprinted under the auspices of an American committee. Baker & Taylor and the American News Co. handle its sale in this country.

IN "THE DREAD OF RESPONSIBILITY" (Putnam), Emile Faguet, of the French Academy, talks straight from the shoulder of certain tendencies to irresponsibility in present-day French life. The book contains a live message for thoughtful Americans in its five chapters: Legal ideas and customs; Professions; In the family; In political customs; For each one of us.

McCLURG'S 1914-1915 CATALOG OF BOOKS is just out. Its four-hundred-odd pages are livened by a large number of cuts and full page illustrations in color. The book lists, fortunately alphabetized under their various subject headings, include everything from fall fiction to Bibles and prayer books. There are lists of fall fiction, fall gift books, fall juveniles, popular copyrights, juvenile books in cloth and board, toy books, books on art, architecture and archaeology, economics, sociology and constitutional law, science, technology and business, popular mechanics and scientific books, reference books (atlases automobile guides, etc.), baby, guest and wedding books, school and college record, speakers and dialogues, and many others. Surely patrons of A. C. McClurg & Company will have no difficulty in making their holiday book selections.

"THE AMATEUR GARDEN," by George W. Cable—an October Scribner publication—deals more particularly with the flower garden and shrubbery. There are numerous illustrations, showing artistic lawns and the most attractive ways in which to group shrubbery. However, the book is not one of those dreadfully technical affairs, but it discusses in a leisurely manner the how's and the why's and where's and the fun of it all under the headings: My own acre; The American garden; Where to plant what; The cottage gardens of Northampton; The private garden's public value; The mid-winter gardens of New Orleans.

UPWARDS OF 200,000 COPIES of Ernest von Wolzogen's book on feminism have been sold in Germany. The ideas contained in Herr Wolzogen's book struck German public opinion like a cold douche when they first appeared some years ago, but the author's jovial treatment of the subject disarmed his gasping critics. The Macaulay Company will publish in October a translation of this book under the title, "The Third Sex." The Macaulay Company announces, also, that they have added pictures in colors by Joseph C. Coll to Broughton Scott's juvenile "Boys and Girls from Dickens." This book for children has been officially adopted by the Kansas State Teachers' and Pupils' Reading Circle as an aid to the forming of the child's taste in reading.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CAMBRIDGE, O.—W. M. Lawyer succeeds J. I. Wilson, druggist and bookseller.

HAMILTON, O.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Forbes & Todd Co., booksellers, newsdealers and stationers.

MERIDIAN, MISS.—The stock of the Heiss Book Store, which recently went into bankruptcy, has been purchased by J. L. Hart and J. V. Ulmer. The books, etc., will be moved into rooms adjoining the Princess Theatre, and with the addition of a new supply of stock the store will, it is claimed, have one of the most up-to-date lines of periodicals and school supplies in the city.

MORRIS, ILL.—W. O. Dix has sold his book and stationery business to Isaac Collins & Co.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Butterick Publishing Company is negotiating to buy additional property on the block bounded by Hudson, Canal, Broome and Watts streets. The Butterick Publishing Company is said to have outgrown its present home, a sixteen story building at Spring, Macdougall and Vandam streets, and intends to erect a new structure containing approximately 300,000 square feet of floor space if the deal is carried through.

NEW YORK CITY.—Donald C. Vaughan and Laurence J. Gomme have separated by mutual agreement. The former has established himself at 1 East 53rd street to conduct his publishing and a retail book business; the latter will conduct as formerly the Little Bookshop Around the Corner, at 2 East 29th street.

POPLAR BLUFF, MO.—E. E. Lutes is successor to Lutes & Feeny, books, drugs and stationery.

WAVERLY, IA.—Broodie & Lee have succeeded A. A. Broodie & Bro., books, drugs, etc.

AUCTION SALES.

OCT. 6TH AT 10:30 A. M. AND 2:30 P. M. (Two sessions.) Catalogue: Miscellaneous books, Americana, travel, literature, history, biography, old Spanish and Portuguese books, etc. (No. 575; 813 titles.)—Merwin.

Weekly Record of New Publications

The entry is transcribed from title page when the book is sent by publisher for record. Books received, unless of minor importance, are given descriptive annotation. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Sizes are indicated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); O. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tt. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. Adams, Franklin Pierce. By and large. Garden City, N. Y., Doubleday, Page. c. '08, '10-'14. 148 p. D. $1 n.

Humorous verse by "F. P. A.," editor of a "Colyum" in the New York Tribune, known as "The Conning Tower."

Aiken, Conrad. Earth triumphant; and other tales in verse. N. Y., Macmillan. c. 9+219 p. D. $1.25 n.

Out of justice to himself, author explains that before he ever heard of Masfield he was experimenting in the form of the narrative poem; but acknowledges any subsequent debt he owes to the English poet.

Alarcon y Mendoza, Juan Ruiz de. Las paredes oyen; ed. with introd. and notes by Caroline B. Bourland. N. Y., Holt. c. 30+189 p. front. S. (New Spanish ser.) 75 c.

Allen, Frances Newton Symmes. Her wings. Bost., Houghton Mifflin. c. 9+364 p. D. $1.25 n.

Georgia Frame's mother had taught her to be a man-hater. She grows up intellectually strong, but emotionally unresponsive. After Mrs. Frame's death, Georgia is softened somewhat by association with a widowed college chum and her family of children. Georgia had thought herself a new woman, but Dr. Craig, a young doctor, teaches her to be a different kind of feminist.

Allen, Ja. Men and systems. N. Y., Dodge Pub. c. 3+9-149 p. 12°, $1.25.

American Academy of Political and Social Science. Government regulation of water transportation. Phil., [The Academy.] c. 306 p. O. (Annals) pap., $1.

Baker, Etta Anthony. Fairmount's quartette; with ils. by C: M. Relyea. Bost., Little, Brown. c. 358 p. D. (Fairmount girls ser.) $1.30 n.

Further adventures of the four girl chums who are now seniors at Fairmount Academy.

Begbie, Harold. The proof of God. N. Y. and Chic., Revell. c. 159 p. 12°, 75 c. n.

Belloc, Hilaire i. e. Joseph Hilaire Pierre. The book of the Bayeux Tapestry; presenting the complete work in a series of colour facsimiles; [with] introd. and narrative. N. Y., Putnam. 19+pls. O. map. $3.50 n.

Interesting inquiry into the date and conditions of making of the famous tapestry, with a commentary on each of the panels. Plates can be easily detached from the book, and framed continuously, would make a complete facsimile for a library or museum.

Bennett, Enoch Arnold. The author's craft. N. Y., Doran. c. 124 p. D. bds., 75 c. n.

A noble quality of mind, perhaps hard to acquire, a power of seeing life (not merely looking at it), that can be acquired, a holding to what one sees as the truth of this same life in spite of tradition, have made the great writer-artists of the past. This the essay explains, and in a sane and friendly tone points along the same road for their successors.

Bernhardi, Friedrich von. Germany and the next war; tr. by Allen H. Powles. Popular ed. N. Y., Longmans. c. '12. 8+288 p. D. $1 n.

Presents a commentary on the German attitude in the European war and prophesies methods and aims of German army leaders in their attacks on Belgium and France. Avows the doctrine that Germany must fight its way to predominance and force upon humanity its spirit and culture. Two chapters discuss "the inevitable naval war" with England.

Berry, Mary, and Berry, Agnes. The Berry papers; being the correspondence hitherto unpublished of Mary and Agnes Berry (1763-1852); [comp. and ed.] by Lewis Melville. N. Y., J: Lane. 18+348 p. il. pors. pls. facsim. O. $6 n.

Introductory chapter tells the life of the two sisters until 1790. The letters, so far as is possible, carry it on. Among their correspondents were Maria Edgeworth, Lord Jeffery and the Carlises.

Berry, T: Franklin. Four years with Morgan and Forrest. Oklahoma City, Okla., Harlow-Ratliff Co. c. 7-15+476 p. il. pls. pors. 12°, $3.25.

Betty Blue; and other Mother Goose rhymes; with pictures by Blanche Fisher Wright. Chic. and N. Y., Rand, McNally. c. 62 p. S. (Bye-lo ser.) bds., 25 c.

Bindloss, Harold. For the Allinson honor; with front. in color by Cyrus Cuneo. N. Y., Stokes. c. '13. 6+350 p. D. $1.30 n.

The Allinson name was unexcelled for honesty and soundness. Many successful ventures that they backed won the confidence of the public. Consequently, when Andrew Allinson suspected something wrong in the management of their Canadian mines, he woke up into a man of action. He was regarded as stupid and lazy. He made the other men in the family look that way by the time he had learned mining, prospected for a new mine to make up the losses of the old, and won the girl he loved.

Black, Ja. M., ed. New junior songs; for use in junior societies, and on special occasions. N. Y. and Cin., Meth. Bk. Concern. c. no paging. O. 20 c. n.

Blackwell, Eliz., M.D. Pioneer work for women. N. Y., Dutton. 19+236 p. 16°, (Everyman's lib.) 35 c. n.; leath., 75 c. n.

Blaisdell, Mary Frances. Pretty Polly Flinders; il. by Eugenie Wireman. Bost., Little, Brown. c. 10+188 p. D. 50 c. n.

Questions that the little girl in the rhyme asked about other Mother Goose people and the answers she got. Printed in large type for children five to seven years old.

Blasdale, Wa. C. Principles of quantitative analysis; an introductory course; 70 illustrations. N. Y., Van Nostrand. c. 10+394 p. D. $2.50 n.

Borrow, G. H. The Zincali: an account of the Gypsies of Spain. N. Y., Dutton. 14+251 p. 16°, (Everyman's lib.) 35 c. n.; leath., 75 c. n.

Brady, Cyrus Townsend. Arizona; a romance of the great southwest; made into a book from the play of the same name by A. Thomas; with ils. by J. N. Marchand. N. Y., Dodd, Mead. c. 6+324 p. D. $1.25 n.
In its new form, story keeps its well-known picture of garrison life, where the villany of Capt. Hodgman separated the Colonel and his wife, and placed the hero, Lieut. Denton, in such a position that no one but Bonita believed in him, until Hodgman's murder by a half-breed, who had the courage to speak as well as to act.

Brontë, Anne. The tenant of Wildfell Hall. N. Y., Dutton. 12+531 p. 16°, (Everyman's lib.) 35 c. n.; leath., 75 c. n.

- French, Anne Warner, [Mrs. C: Ellis French.] The gay and festive Claverhouse; an extravaganza; with ils. by Clarence F. Underwood. Bost., Little, Brown. c. 5+216 p. D. $1 n.
"If one is only two points from a title, and the world calls one wicked and extravagant, when it is really amused by one's pranks, it doesn't matter, you know." That would express Claverhouse's philosophy. But when he got ill, he became rather serious, and decided if he had only six months to live he must kill every bit of love Madeliene Wythe had for him. He succeeded, only to regret his success. Then there was nothing to do but forget the time limit, and begin all over again.

House (The) of deceit. N. Y., Holt. c. 342 p. D. $1.35 n.

Maurice Sangster, of socialistic tendencies, comes up to London to set the Thames afire. Maud Gowler, a housemaid would marry him, but he aspires to the hand of Phoebe Champness, a millionaire's daughter. The story of Sangster's struggle for fame in journalism and politics is a medium for the discussion of the lining-up of the forces of radicalism and conservatism in politics and religion; the increasing pressure of labor upon church and state; and the drift of protestantism towards catholicism, and the easing of catholicism toward modernism.

She is a sailing vessel, New York to Seattle, Capt. West. Margaret West is making the voyage because she is anxious about her father's health. Young Mr. Pathurst is making it, also, because he needs a change. They run into awful weather, and the crew becomes jumpy, to say the least. The captain dies, and the mate takes command. He drives the crew until their dissatisfaction breaks into mutiny. The situation becomes horribly grotesque. It gives Pathurst many opportunities to prove himself worthy of Margaret. The log, modestly kept by him, tells how he took advantage of them.

Rinehart, Mrs. Mary Roberts. The Street of Seven Stars. Bost., Houghton Mifflin. c. 377 p. D. $1.25 n.

Suddenly Harmony realized that her money was almost gone. She was studying in Vienna, and dreamed that she would be a great violinist. It was almost worse than if she had never started her work. She would not give it up, and decided to stay and earn more money to go on with it. She went hunting work and found—Peter. He was nearly as poor as she, a student and an American, too. He gave her sympathy and chivalry, and they had his little money between them. Their home in the Street of Seven Stars sheltered tired Dr. Anna and Jimmie, a waif. The neighbors could not believe that they were poor and happy and good, all at once. The gossip spoiled their companionship for a time, but not for all time, one may be sure.

Rittenberg, Max. Every man his price. N. Y., Dillingham. c. 315 p. D. $1.25 n.

When Sir Henry Warde sees that he cannot finance his wireless telephony honorably, he loses his principle and makes the best bargain he can. He wants to make a fortune to be able to marry the woman he loves. After their marriage, he becomes engrossed in his inventions again. He loses his wife's love and his fortune. After their divorce he turns once more to his work, knowing its value by the price he had paid for it.

Stacpoole, Mrs. Marg. Robson, [Mrs. H: De Vere Stacpoole.] London, 1913; a novel. N. Y., Duffield. 347 p. D. $1.25 n.

A little part of London that Musgrave and his daughter Phyl saw in a season. They came from South Africa. Except Chatterton, they did not meet many people; only diamond rich ones, as Phyl said. The day after he met Phyl, Chatterton acquired some papers relating to the past of a millionaire, Archdale. That same day, Archdale, through a trick, robbed Musgrave of a farm in South Africa. It took all summer to get matters shaped so that Chatterton could bring the papers against Archdale into the case of the farm transfer. That, of course, was because he had to be sure first that Phyl wanted him to help manage her affairs.

Under the heading "BOOKS WANTED" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertisement for specific books out of print in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding 100 lines a year. If over five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line. Books not out of print, unspecified wants, repeated matter, and all advertisements from non-subscribers, cost 10 cents a line. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY, does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "BOOKS FOR SALE" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 10 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

The Methodist Book Concern and The Abingdon Press

150 Fifth Ave.
New York City

WE have been in business for upwards of 125 years and until within comparatively recent years have confined ourselves to the production of our own requirements.

We have at the present time an organization in the Printing and Bookbinding business second to none. Our staff of proof readers is one of the best in the country.

On account of certain recent readjustments, we now have capacity for doing an additional amount of Printing and Binding.

We can execute all kinds of work in the Printing and Bookbinding line from an ordinary pamphlet to the very highest grade of commercial Cloth and Leather Binding. We cater for high-grade work only; our prices, however, are very conservative.

Among some of the accounts on our books are the following to whom we refer for reference:

Oxford University Press, American Branch	Review of Reviews
International Textbook Co., Scranton, Pa.	Harper & Bros.

Fourth Presbyterian Church

JOHN TIMOTHY STONE, MINISTER

CHICAGO

CHURCH OFFICE

126 EAST CHESTNUT STREET

August 6th, 1914

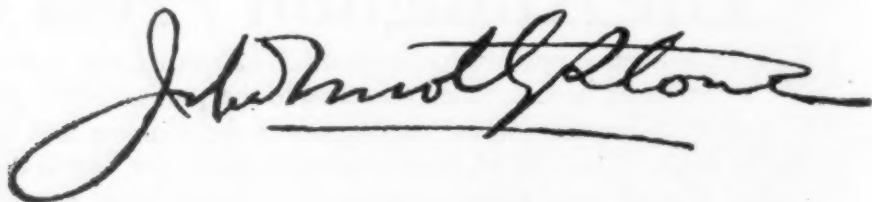

Messrs. Thomas Nelson & Sons,
381 Fourth Avenue,
New York City, N. Y.

Dear Sirs:

I want to tell you that the reason we put the American Standard Revised Bible in our Church, primarily, was that for eight years our children have been trained in that edition in the Sunday School.*

Personally, I had feelings for the King James, but am glad, all things considered, that we put in the American Standard Edition; and you certainly put up a splendid Edition for us.

Ever yours cordially,

* This Sunday School was one of the first to introduce the American Standard Version because it was felt that the young people were entitled to the best translation that could be produced.

Dr. Stone's Church ordered 1,200 of these Bibles in leather binding for its pews.

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in AUGUST, 1914

This Reference List enters the books recorded during the month under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics

For books received sizes are given in CAPS, Q, O, D, etc., books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i.e. GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

The Trail Blazers Series

The New 1914 Volume just issued

BUFFALO BILL AND THE OVERLAND TRAIL By EDWIN L. SABIN

Illustrated in color and black and white by CHAS. H. STEPHENS

When Pioneer and Indian disputed title to the great West, in the days of the Overland Trail, the Pony Express and the Deadwood Coach, when wild game in vast numbers still covered the plains, Buffalo Bill began the adventurous career that has indissolubly linked his picturesque figure with the opening of the land to civilization. In the true history of the great pioneer and Indian-fighter, Mr. Sabin found a great field for his accurate pen—an inspiring, wonderful story of the adventures of a boy during those perilous and exciting times.
